Prospect City announced it has been contracted by executive search firm Pieper & Associates to provide a unique Velvet database solution.

Velvet offers clients a secure and stable online database solution that is designed specifically for senior level recruitment. Each system is proprietary and customization is unlimited, resulting in a unique database for each client.

“Each proprietary solution can be customized to meet the demands of its clients. In this case Pieper and Associates serves unique clients with very high standards for accuracy, detail and delivery.” said Robert Stein, President of Prospect City. “This firm is unique in many ways, but a stand-out for us is that the management and delivery of information to clients is unique in almost every case. That requires us to be able to implement small and large changes on a regular basis. For most off-the-shelf software solutions this is just not possible. With Prospect City this is routine.”

Prospect City is an infrastructure services provider to recruiting firms and corporate recruiting functions. The company develops and hosts technology for small, medium and large search firms. Menu-based solutions include database, VoIP telephony, website and email hosting, and accounting technology.

Pieper & Associates, LLC was founded by Lisa R. Pieper, M.D., M.B.A. to serve the strategic organizational needs of clients in healthcare and the life sciences. Under Dr. Pieper’s leadership, the company focuses on executive-level and board recruitment, including both governance and advisory boards, as well as on organizational and leadership advisory services. Pieper & Associates customizes its approach to each assignment, allowing them to address the dynamic needs of any client.
